

The Raweekanlaya Bangkok was originally built in the late 1800's as the residence of the royal governess of His Majesty King Vajiravudh or Rama VI, the sixth monarch of Siam under the house of Chakri, and is considered the father of Thai nationalism. The residence is also remnant of Thewet Palace, which used to be located in the area.

The Raweekanlaya Bangkok features 38 guest rooms carefully designed to reflect the heritage of Old-Siam with contemporary touches. It is a true urban resort with over 900 square meters of lush greenery, highlighted by a 120-year old Banyan Tree.
